CORN AGAIN LEADS THE GRAIN MARKET

Lack of Rain in Kansas and Missouri Responsible for Higher Prices.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Blistering winds and no rain in Kansas and Missouri finaland no rain in Kansas and Missouri finally sent corn on a decidedly upward course today, after a series of violent sellings. The market closed firm, the to the light net higher. Wheat showed a gain of it to etc, and oats a rise of he to 10% to fee the course to the course of the co

Some points in Iowa also sent word of temperature of 164 in the shade, and predicted that two more such days would mean the ruin of the crop.

Hestiation and weakness that preceded the conclusive advance in corn were due to light rains which were scattered pretty generally over most of the belt east of the Missouri river, except in Missouri. There was a forecast, too, that additional sprinkles would appear. Experts in Kansas, however, asserted that even with heavy rain tonight the state would not yield half a crop. Other bullish incentives were found in an estimate that hay marketed this year would be nearly 29 per cent less in amount than last season and that much livestock was already on feed, owing to pastures burning up in a way not equaled since 1901.

Wheat tagged corn. Heavy receipts here encouraged some bear speculators and so also did favorable reports from Canada, where the harvest is near at hand. There was an offset, though, in advices that the wheat arriving in Chicago was already sold, and that country offerings were next to nothing and expecially from Kansas and Missouri. Primary receipts were 2,206,000 bushels; a year ago, 1,981,000 bushels. Export clearances of wheat and flour equaled 1,358,000 bushels.

Good threshing returns in northern sections made outs relatively weak. On the Good threshing returns in northern sections made oats relatively weak. On the other hand, the east was a better buyer. Offerings dried up quickly in provisions. Purchasers were few, but took pains not to crowd the market on the advance.

RAILROAD COMPANY GIVES 60-DAY NOTICE

Compensation for Transportation of Parcel Post Matter Is Declared Entirely Inadequate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Complaints from many railroads against alleged inadequate compensation for increased weight of mail matter under the parcel post system has cuiminated in a notice to the postoffice department from the Toledo. St. Louis & Western company that at the end of sixty days it will discontinue the transportation of mail.

The company's contract will not expire for two years and the department has informed the management that discontinuance will not be permitted; that the interests of the government and of the public as well as those of the railroad, must be considered. Negotiations between Second Assistant Postmaster General Dockery and the railroad now are in progress and the department officials are confident that the trouble will be adfusted without the necessity of taking it into the courts.

tion in the following respects:

To amend Article VI of said articles of incorporation, so as to read as follows:

"Article VI. The amount of the capital steck of this company shall be $350,000.00, divided into $500 shares of the face or par value of $100.00 each. The said capital stock shall consist of three classes as follows: 4500 shares thereof shall be known and designated as Class A preferred stock; 2500 shares thereof as Class B preferred stock, and 2500 shares thereof as common stock.

The holders of Class A preferred stock shall be entitled to receive, when and as declared from the surplus or net earnings of the corporation, yearly dividends at the rate of $ per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, on the dates to be fixed by the by-laws or by resolution of the board of directors.

The dividends on Class A preferred stock shall be cumulative and shall be payable before any dividends on Class B preferred stock, or the common stock, shall be paid or set apart, so that, if, for any year, dividends amounting to 8 per cent shall not have been paid thereon, the deficiency shall be payable before any dividends on the Class B preferred or the common stock.

Whenever cumulative dividends on the Class A preferred stock for all previous years shall have been declared and shall have become payable and the accrued semi-annual installments for the current year shall have been declared and the company shall have paid such declared cumulative dividends for previous years and such accrued semi-annual installment upon Class A preferred stock, and shall have set aside from its surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment thereof, the holders of Class B preferred stock shall be entitled to receive, when and as declared from the remaining surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment thereof, the holders of Class B preferred stock shall be entitled to receive, when and as declared from the remaining surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment of the cumulative dividends and the accrued se terred stock, as aforesaid, yearly dividends at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, and no more, payable semi-annually.

The dividends on the Class B preferred stock shall also be cumulative and shall be payable before any dividends on the common stock shall be paid or set apart, so that, if, for any year, dividends amounting to 6 per cent shall not have been paid on said Class B preferred stock, the deficiency shall be payable before any dividends shall be paid upon or set apart for the common stock.

Whenever all cumulative dividends on the preferred stock, both Class A and Class B, for all previous years, shall have been declared, and shall have become payable, and the accrued semi-annual installments for all the preferred stock for the current years shall have been declared, and the company shall have paid such cumulative dividends for previous years upon both classes of preferred stock, in the order aforesaid, and also such semi-annual installments thereon, as aforesaid, or shall have set aside from its surplus or net profits a sum sufficient for the payment thereof, as aforesaid, the board of directors may declare dividends out of the net profits and earnings of said corporation, payable at such time as may be by resolution of the board of directors provided, to the holders of Class A preferred stock and common stock of the company, equally; that is to say, Class A preferred stock shall share equally with the common stock in the distribution of any such dividends.

In case of any liquidation, dissolution, or winding up, whether voluntary or involuntary, after the payment to the holders of Class B preferred stock, or common stock, and shall likewise be paid such par amount of such preferred stock. In company, created or contracted subsequent to the issuance of such Class A preferred stock. In case of any liquidation, dissolution, or winding up, whether voluntary or involuntary after the payment to the holders of Class A preferred stock, at the ferred stock.

In case of any liquidation, dissolution or winding up, whether voluntary or involuntary after th payment to the holders of Class A preferred stock, at the par amount of such preferred shares, together with accumulated dividends thereon, as above provided, the holders of Class B preferred stock shall be paid the par amount of such Class B preferred shares, together with accumulated dividends thereon, prior to the distribution of any of the assets or funds of the corporation among the holders of the common stock.

Class A preferred stock, and the present outstanding preferred stock, which shall be known hereafter as Class B preferred stock shall have no right to vote at, or participate in, the proceedings of any meeting of the stockholders of the company, either general or special; but the holders and owners of the common stock of the company shall have the sole right to participate in any such stockholders' meeting, either general or special, and vote the shares of the common capital stock of the company, for the election of directors and for the transaction of all other business of the company.

And also, if the said articles shall be

And also, if the said articles shall be amended in the foregoing particulars, to authorize and direct the board of directors of said company to cause the necessary documents evidencing such amendment to be filled with the proper county and state officials of the state of Utah.
